Overview and Important Information

UK Fuels include over 3,700 stations. Garages can include Shell, BP, and Esso. UK Fuels also enables you to fill up at some of the major supermarkets including Morrisons, Tesco, Sainsbury's, and Co-op.

Tesco & Sainsbury's are accessible for convenience. These stations are charged higher than the advertised pump price.

All products outside of standard diesel including AdBlue are available for convenience with the UK Fuels card but are also charged higher than advertised.

Using your card

Retail Refuelling Sites

Your PINs have been sent to you via email. You can also find your PINs on the portal under 'Card Management'.

1. If you are unsure if the station will accept your UK Fuels card, please check with the cashier.
2. Refuel your vehicle noting the pump number, volume of fuel drawn and your mileage.
3. Replace the pump nozzle and return to the till operator. The majority of stations will require a signature.
4. Your receipt will show the volume of fuel drawn (not your price), check the receipt details carefully before signing.
5. Ensure that the correct fuel card is returned to you before leaving.
